VETERAN PATRIOT IS AN IDEAL DELEGATE

Colonel Henry Solomon White.

Col. Henry Solomon White, of Matewan, whose picture here appears, is one of the delegates from the Fifth congressional district of this state to the Republican national convention in Chicago to nominate a presidential ticket. This veteran Republican is a real patriot of the Archie Campbell type and that his will be the part of wisdom in the convention no one doubts. A brief sketch of his life shows that.

Colonel White was born July 12, 1840, in Monongalia county, this state. He worked on his father's farm and received a common school education afforded part of each year. Yet his inclination never ran to agriculture but to mercantile and manufacturing pursuits. He loved the stately trees upon the hills for the lumber they would saw and the exchange they would bring in a fair open market. He loved buying, selling, manufacturing, building and trading in lumber. Hence in after years he contracted to erect the neat representative building for West Virginia's industrial and mineral specimens at the centennial exposition of 1876 in Philadelphia.

Being energetic, practical and outspoken he was nominated by the Republicans and elected by the voters of Marshall county to a seat in the house of delegates and he served from 1872 to 1876. Naturally aggressive, possessed of quick perception, energetic and incorrigible he was a party leader in the legislature and a valuable man in shaping the legislation of that period. In the summer of 1861 Mr. White volunteered in the Union army as a soldier in the Sixth West Virginia regiment. He fought the war through and was badly wounded while defending the Baltimore and Ohio railroad bridge at Fairmont that was destroyed by General Jones of Confederate fame, April 29, 1863. In that engagement Mr. White was made a prisoner of war, but shortly afterwards was paroled along with 200 others who were captured at the same time.

When the war was over he engaged in mercantile pursuits and lumber dealing on an extensive scale. He married Miss Labiah F. Kemble, of Harrison county, in 1865. She died in 1876 and in 1877 he married Miss Lizzie L. Finn, of Moundsville, and she died in 1879.

Governor Henry M. Matthews appointed him a commissioner to the Paris exposition in 1878. April 10, 1889, President Harrison appointed him United States marshal for the district of West Virginia. He afterwards served as deputy internal revenue collector for sixteen years, and he was senator from the Sixth state senatorial district for four years. He has also been prominent as a member of the Republican state executive committee.

EX-GOVERNOR WHITE ANGRERS DEMOCRATS

When He Exposes Course of the Administration and Denounces Its Policies.

Former Governor Albert B. White, of Parkersburg, Thursday night kept his speaking engagement here as announced in the Telegram from time to time. It was claimed that the meeting had not been as extensively advertised as it should have been, and the presumption is, if that be true, that his local publicity committee was too busy at something else and fell down on the job.

The crowd was a disappointment as to size but very good in quality. I. Wade Coffman, clerk of the circuit court and secretary of the Republican county executive committee, called the meeting to order and made a few suitable introductory remarks. He called William H. Taylor to the presiding chair and the latter introduced Governor White in a fitting manner.

Governor White spoke for his candidacy for the party nomination for United States senator. The governor denounced the Wilson administration and its various policies, including the present tariff law, the foreign policies, the repeal of the Panama canal toll law and various other things of omission and commission on the part of the Democratic party. Governor White is a brilliant campaigner and no Republican speaker in this state can get the Democratic goat like he does. Almost from the first word of his address he had every Democrat present not only up in the air but as mad as a wet hen.

Judge George W. Atkinson, billed to speak also, was unable to be present.

POVERTY

Is Closely Related to Tuberculosis According to Health Service Report.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS) WASHINGTON, May 12.—The close relation of poverty to tuberculosis is emphasized in a report made today by the public health service after an extensive investigation in many cities. One-sixth of all tuberculosis cases it discovers develops in cheap lodging houses and one-fifth are traceable to occupational hazards and bad working conditions.

"The great factor underlying the entire problem," says the report, "is seemingly that of economic conditions." As examples statistics gathered in Cincinnati and Pittsburgh are cited. In the former city's tenement district tuberculosis morbidity was found to be three times as great as in the better section and the average monthly income of 197 families in which cases were found was computed as $57. Much of the same condition was discovered in Pittsburgh where nearly 50,000 factory workmen submitted to physical examination in the course of the investigation.
